

The National College Advocacy Group (NCAG), a non-profit membership organization, brings several key aspects of the higher educational planning process together by providing a forum for academic planners, financial advisors, colleges, universities, and governmental organization members to network. Together these members bring a true service to the general public. What distinguishes us from other like organizations is that our primary goal is to help families and students successfully negotiate the complex process of applying for and financing a college education. As a non-profit organization, NCAG's purpose is to disseminate information to members and facilitate their professional growth. The NCAG members take an active part in the governance of the NCAG and volunteer their time to serve on various NCAG committees.
